

American Military University is proud to be the nation's number one provider of higher education to our U.S. Armed Forces. Our Education Coordinators act as a physical extension of our virtual campus. They are the "human touch" connection to Education Office staff and to students located at military installations nationwide. Each coordinator shares a deep understanding of the unique needs of our soldiers and veterans and has the experience and knowledge to discuss your educational and career goals, answer specific questions, and solve problems. I encourage you to view our Welcome Video to get to know our team better. Don't hesitate to call on us in time of need—we serve those who serve.
